It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

In early life I loved the society of aged people, and committed to writing many facts relating to our family. Afterward, during a residence of thirty years outside of my native state, I learned to value these records, and enlarged them from time to time.

The secretary of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, John W. Dean, Esq., suggested to me the idea of including in these records, so far as possible, all the known descendants of our ancestor, John Foulsum; and I soon found others willing to aid in the difficult work of collecting materials to be published and preserved. To none am I more indebted than to the collections of the late Judge John Kelley, published in the Exeter News-Letter from 1838 to 1850. Edward P. Coffin, Esq., late of Skowhegan, Me., the Rev. Moses Folsom, late of Effingham, deceased, Charles Burleigh, of Portland, author of the Burleigh Genealogy, Joseph Foster, of the U. S. Navy, and many others, whose names will be found in the following pages, deserve the thanks of the family for their contributions to the work.

Of the imperfections of this work none can be more sensible than the writer; but after so many years of toil, it seems best to offer the results of his researches to the family, who can never know the amount of time and labor he has spent on it.

The names of many will not be found on these pages, because they would not take the trouble to send me their records. I do not know as they belong to our family, although I have found none of the name, except in the Southern states, who can trace their origin to any other than our ancestor, JOHN FOLSOM<sup>1</sup>. It has been impossible to fix all the dates exactly correct. Many have been careless in copying their records; and when records differ, I have not often any means of correcting the errors, and deciding which is the true record. When I have found evidence of an error, I have corrected it.

Some will be disappointed that they and their friends receive no more extended notice in this work. Had I given full biographical sketches of all the good people named in this volume, I should have made five volumes instead of one. Would those who complain be willing to pay their proportion of five times the expense? Besides, if they are able and willing to pay five times what I ask for this volume, the expense of such a large work would put it beyond the reach of hundreds who would gladly pay for this volume, and highly value it. So I have been obliged to abridge many interesting sketches that I have in my possession, and have not obtained others that I might have procured.

It would be interesting to trace back our family into the place from which they received their surname—Folsham—in Norfolk county, England; but more than one hundred years ago the records of that old church and parish were destroyed by fire, so that many old families, descended from citizens of that place, are unable to trace their ancestry. Our ancestors left Folsham some centuries before John Folsham came to America.

After long and perplexing study of the records of families and of churches, of towns and of counties, I have succeeded in tracing many of the descendants of Israel<sup>2</sup> and Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> whose connection with their ancestors, we supposed, had been lost beyond recovery. Many of the earlier generations would receive more notice, as they really deserved; but I cannot reproduce the records which have been lost.

It might be interesting to some to know the authorities upon which I have founded some of the statements which are contained in this book, and the long and laborious processes by which I have reached the conclusions found on these pages; but it would require much more space and labor to describe and refer to all these authorities, and to explain all the evidences which have led me to the conclusions that I present here. The majority of readers, I presume, would not read all these particulars, or would not thank me for them, if they did.

The introduction was prepared by Rev. N. S. Folsom, D. D. (now of Lawrence, Mass.), for the article upon the "Folsom Family" in The New England Historic-Genealogical Register, in April, 1876, which was reprinted in a pamphlet. I much regret that he has not been able to continue his valuable assistance in the remainder of the work. In the body of this work I make use of the materials collected by Dr. Folsom and Judge Kelly so frequently that I do not often use quotation marks when I copy their language.

BY REV. N. S. FOLSOM, D. D., LAWRENCE, MASS.

On the 26th of April, 1638, the ship "Diligent, of Ipswich," Eng., of 350 tons burden, John Martin, master, set sail from the mouth of the Thames for Massachusetts bay, having on board nineteen families and six or eight single persons,—in all, one hundred and thirty-three. Twelve of these families, numbering eighty-four souls, were from old Hingham—the rest from the immediate vicinity; and they had all embarked for the purpose of joining a colony settled in Hingham, Mass. (1633-37), consisting of ten families and five single persons (in all, forty-nine), who had been their friends and neighbors in old Hingham. Among those now emigrating were John Foulsham,* of Hingham, then twenty-three or twenty-four years of

* As to the original derivation of the name FOULSHAM, Hon. George Folsom, in one of the MSS. left by him, says,—“It arose, upon the adoption of surnames in England, from the town of Foulsham, a village in the county of Norfolk, England [six or eight miles north of Hingham], in which county the family was seated for many centuries, possessing estates in fifteen different places.” Thus, John of Foulsham became John Foulsham.

The orthography and pronunciation of the name have varied in the family itself, as well as among others writing and pronouncing it. The first Anglo-American bearing the name spelt it "Foulsham." His son, Dea. John, wrote it "Fullsom" in 1709; and it is signed "Foullsam" in his last will—1715. In one instance, in the Hingham town records, it is spelt "Fulsham," but always afterward "Foulsham." In the Exeter records it is uniformly written "Folsom" from the year 1659, with one exception in 1681, when the town clerk wrote "Foulshame." In the records of the first parish, Haverhill, Mass.,—1749-64,—it is spelt "Foulsham," "Foulsam," "Folsham," and "Fulsom," on occasion of the baptism of children of "Josiah Foulsham." Originally it was doubtless spelt "Foulshame," its etymological significance being the fowl's home, or breeding-place or mart. The old syllabic division must have age, and his young wife, to whom he had been married about a year and a half. They were attended by two servants. His wife's father and mother (Edward and Mary Clark Gilman, of Hingham), three younger brothers (Edward, not quite twenty-one years old, John, and Moses), two younger sisters (Sarah, and Lydia who married Daniel Cushing—1645), and three servants of the family, were fellow-passengers. The rector of the parish, Rev. Robert Peck, with his family, consisting of wife, two children, and two servants, also formed part of the company. The immediate occasion of their departure seems to have been trouble in ecclesiastical matters. Their rector, doubtless with the sympathy and aid of most of those constituting the emigrating party, had pulled down the rails of chancel and been Foulshame, the final syllable becoming shortened into "ham," with the first letter silent, pronounced like um, as may now often be noticed in words of that termination. A further shortening appears in 1504,—how extensively practised is uncertain,—in a Latin inscription on a monumental stone in the floor of the church of Repps, Norfolk county, which, translated, is, "Pray for the soul of Mr. Thomas Folsam, Baccalaureate of the Chapel." (Hist. of Norfolk Co., vol. xi, p. 182.) This last mode of spelling appears on modern maps of England, designating the town; but everywhere it is now written Folsom by those bearing the name.

In regard to the pronunciation of this word, it is now generally pronounced by the family quite like wholesome. The writer has never known but one exception. And we suggest that this is a preservation of the old way of pronouncing the name: that in the first syllable, "Fouls," the diphthong "ou" was sounded as in "souls," "poultry," &c. Certain it is that this old spelling—fouls (or foules)—of our modern word "fowls" occurs in Chaucer, as in his "House of Fame," and in his "Legend of Nine Good Women,"—

"As this foule, when hit, beheld."

"I hear the foules sing."

Our suggestion is, moreover, fully borne out by similar phenomena of pronunciation in modern times. We hear "bowling-alley" (once written bouling-alley, and the sphere or ball, boule) pronounced in two ways, with the first syllable like "ow" in howl and in the drinking-vessel bowl. "Johnson, Elphinstone, and Perry declare for the former,—i. e., as in howl; Sheridan, Scott, Rennell, and Smith pronounce it like hole. Garrick corrected Walker for pronouncing it like 'howl.'" (Early English Pronun., vol. i, p. 152.) Even the pronunciation of the word, when written as Dea. John Folsom wrote it, "Fullsom," has authority in the old pronunciation of the word "Cowper" like that of wound, a hurt, as now heard, with the ou as in "group," or, possibly, nearer the sound of o-oo, the sound of the ow in "Cowper," as in howl, being "given it only by those who do not know the family."

altar, and levelled the latter a foot below the church, as it remains to this day. Being prosecuted by Bishop Wren, he left the kingdom, together with his friends, who sold their estates at half their real value, promising to remain with them always.

The party having landed at Boston, Mass., August 10, 1638, immediately proceeded to their place of destination, about fourteen miles south-east from Boston. An Adam Foulsham, probably a son of the Adam who died in 1627, and a cousin, if not brother, of John Foulsham, came from Hingham, Eng., to Hingham, Mass., in 1639, but returned to England and died—1670. Their rector remained about three years, when, hearing that the bishops were deposed, he returned to England in 1641* (the date given by Daniel Cushing), resumed his rectory, and died in 1656. Edward Gilman had with others obtained a grant of land eight miles square in a place now called Rehoboth, near the Rhode Island line, in 1641. In 1647 his name is recorded in Ipswich. Soon afterward he went to Exeter, N. H., where his sons were already established in business. John Folsom and wife, with their children, followed her father and mother to Exeter, probably not earlier than 1650, the first authentic record of their residence in that town being in the year 1655.

During the twelve or fifteen years' residence of John Foulsham in Hingham, Mass., he was not without tokens of the good-will of the people. He received, in 1638, a grant of land, and soon built himself a house. It is quoted from Daniel Cushing's records in Sprague's Genealogy, Appendix, p. 50, that "There was given him by the Town four acres of Land butting upon the Playne eastward and upon the Common westward;" and the author of the Genealogy mentions that "The house standing upon this lot [1828] was built by Foulsham before Daniel Cushing was Town-clerk [1669]—the frame is of sawed oak-timber. My grandfather," the author adds, "bought it in 1744 of Daniel Beal—my father left it in 1800; the Spragues own it at present." This house was taken down in 1875, and some of its sawed oak manufactured into memorial chairs. Another record is quoted of the 30th of January, 1645, that "The seven or nine men chosen to order the prudential affairs of the town shall be chosen out of the body of the Town, as well non-Freemen as Freemen;" and the seven chosen were "Thomas Josselyn, George Marsh, Thomas Gill, John Tower, John Smith, John Foulsham, William Sprague." And, again: "It is ordered & agreed upon by the town that Capt. Joshua Hubbard and John Foulsham shall have liberty of the two rivers, Rocky Meadow & Bound Brook Rivers, so far as the town hath property, to build & maintain a saw-mill or mills."

It is related in the Exeter News genealogy, that in 1645 there arose some "troublesome business," as Gov. Winthrop calls it, in reference to himself personally,—a man named Emes, who had been lieutenant of Hingham, having been appointed captain by the government, but rejected by the people, who elected Allen in his stead. Winthrop, then lieutenant-governor, insisted that Emes should be obeyed as commanding officer. The people insisted upon having Allen for their captain, and, "speaking evil of dignities," asked, "What have magistrates to do with us?" protesting, also, that they would die at the sword's point if they might not have the choice of their own officers. The result was a requisition on some of the leaders to give security for appearance at court, and on their refusal, a commitment to prison. In turn, the friends of the imprisoned arraigned Winthrop for assumption of power and illegal imprisonment. The affair terminated in the acquittal of the deputy governor; and a fine of £155½ was imposed on about ninety persons, £20 of which John Foulsham was sentenced to pay. By some means he was finally exempted, for his name does not appear among the censured and fined.

After his removal to Exeter, the name of "Goodman Folsom" appears in 1659 on the list of "selectmen." He obtained a grant of land in 1660. His sons also all obtained similar grants in years following. He was a juryman in 1662. In July, 1665, being one of a committee representing Dover, Portsmouth, Exeter, and Hampton, to consult on certain political grievances, he presented "a petition to the King's Majesty," for consideration by the committee, praying that they "might be governed by the laws of England," and expressing "joy that the King had sent over Commissioners into these parts," and "sorrow that the Commissioners were evilly entertained by the Bay Government." Connected with this, and showing further action in the matter, it is recorded in Vol. I of the Provincial Papers of New Hampshire, p. 280, without date, but about 1665, that "testimonies of selectmen are made that John Foulsham, Sen., and three others, Abraham Corbitt, Robert Burnham and Edward Hilton, are principal actors in trying to procure hands to be taken off [i. e., to sign off] from the Bay Government." In 1676 he and his brother-in-law, Moses Gilman, disagreed about their boundary lines, and the latter, in a passion, pulled up a parcel of fence that stood between their lands. "John Sen'r." instantly entered his complaint. The case was "respired" a few days at the request of Moses. Intercession on the part of mutual friends, "persuading to peace, meantime proved fruitless." John felt that an insult and a wrong had been committed, and he pressed the trial. The decision was slightly evasive of the question of real line of boundary; but so far as it went, it was against Moses, who was required to bear the cost of complaint (16 shillings), and where, by pulling down the fence, he had made gaps and exposed his neighbor's crops to injury, he must put it up and keep it up "until after next Indian harvest," when, of course, the matter in dispute might be opened again, and a more intelligent decision be given. Mr. Commissioner Dalton, however, "does advise to peace and love in the mean time, as their relation and duty requireth."

From facts like these, the descendants of the Anglo-American JOHN FOLSOM may learn what were some of the traits of character in their ancestor. He was enterprising, courageous, prominent in the communities in which he lived, a leader in public affairs, determined on simplicity in religious worship and equity in the state,—a solid, independent, righteous, and true man.

The earliest period in which the name appears in history is the first half of the fourteenth century. There was a John Foulsham, of Foulsham, prior of a Carmelite monastery in Norwich, and "præses provincialis" of all England. In all probability he belonged to a family of which the Folsoms are lineal descendants. He was D. D. of Cambridge, and, according to Pitt, is spoken of in John Bayle's "Catalogue of Eminent Writers" (p. 421) as follows: "After an acquaintance with Aristotle's methods, and having got a smattering of the original scriptures [gustatis scripturarum corticibus], he became no mean proficient in controversial theology, knowing how, by means of syllogistic tricks, to turn white into black and men into donkeys." He died in the great plague at Norwich, in 1348. Richard Foulsham, also of Foulsham, and probably the prior's brother, was much in the court of John XXII at Rome (1316-34), with whom he corresponded, and some of his letters to whom were published.*

* There is in existence in the Norfolk (formerly part of Essex county, and part of the Province of New Hampshire) records of deeds, book 2, leaf 291, a copy of a deed given by the first John Folsom, for the two following paragraphs from which we are indebted to the kindness of the family of the late Mr. Charles Folsom:

"John Ffulsham of Exiter [N. H.] in respect of y<sup>e</sup> paternall love and affeccion and fatherly care and good will of my trustie and well beloved sone Peter Ffulsham of Exiter afores'd and for ye future good and benefit of him and his posterity," gives him

"40 or 50 acres of land in Hingham in y<sup>e</sup> county of Norfolk [Eng.] near Norrald Comon and formerly cald by y<sup>e</sup> name of Ffulsham at y<sup>e</sup> Boxbushes;—bounded W. wth Norrald Comon, E. with great Langhames and little Langhams, N. with Hardingham Comon. S. E. with land of John Buck formerly and Edward Fflower formerly." "10 April, 1673."

In possession of the same family is a fac-simile of an autograph of John Folsom, penned the year he died, and showing another way of spelling the name, as follows: "John Foullsam, 1681."

The definite location of the "land in Hingham" is worthy of notice. It may assist in gaining a correct conception of it to consider that "Hingham was once the head town of a deanery, and contained 43 parishes." "Ffulsham" seems to have been one of these outlying parishes; and the deed proves that the first John Folsom had land there as well as in "Hackford-by-Hingham," as the latter place was sometimes called by way of distinction. The appellation "Ffulsham at the Box-bushes" suggests a site where the box-shrub abounded, and was planted as an ornament of garden and lawn, perhaps an ancient home of his ancestors,—the buildings long gone,—one of the freeholds gained by purchase or gift in the parishes in which the manors of the noblemen were a moiety only. The DeMarshalls and Morleys had "manors in Folesham" from 1202 to 1580. The DePoinings had "fees" there in 1324. (See, for these various statements, "Blomefield's County of Norfolk," vol. 2.) It was also an "advowson" (i. e., with right attached of appointing to a church-living), a "demesne" (the nobleman's tenants being exempt from tolls and taxes), &c.; and the names of the bordering parishes of Hardingham, Langham, and Norrald (Northwold, where it is stated that the "site of a manor" had become "a pasture-close"), can be all identified. Perhaps the land had been kept so long because of the dear associations connected with it. He remembered the fragrance and greenness of its shrubbery; and now, eight years before his death, he will not alienate the ancestral possession from this family, but bestows it on one of his sons. The father's tribute to the good qualities of the son supplies valuable testimony of character, in the absence of any other record.

The first traceable ancestor of John Foulsham is (1) ROGER Foulsham, of Necton, county of Norfolk, Eng., whose will is dated 1534. (2) WILLIAM, his son, married Agnes Smith, alias Foulsham, of Besthorpe, and was father of (3) ADAM, of Besthorpe, who married Emma —, and whose will is dated 1565. He owned lands in Besthorpe, Wymondham (Windham), Bunwell, Hingham, and Hackford. (4) ADAM, his son, was baptized in 1560; married Grace —; had a home in Hingham and lands in Besthorpe. He died in 1630. (5) ADAM, of Hingham, son of the latter, married Agnes —, and died in 1627. The facts in the preceding paragraph, and thus far in the present, are given on the authority of the MSS. of Hon. George Folsom, who visited England and explored every possible source of information. He next states that "Adam," the fourth in descent from "Roger," left a son named "John," —i. e., the first Anglo-American John Foulsham. From this first Anglo-American John Folsom, of Exeter, N. H., and his wife, Mary Gilman Folsom, are descended, so far as we know, all the Folsoms in America, with the exception of one family, with which is connected a story curious enough to be given in a note below.*

* Mr. Abraham Folsom, of Boston, has related to the writer the following: That his younger brother, James Madison Folsom, who went to Savannah, Ga., in 1829, and died before the Rebellion, had two sons,—Dr. Robert W., who fell in the battle of the Wilderness, the colonel of his regiment, and James M., a young lawyer, and colonel on the staff of Gov. Brown. As Col. James was passing with a Georgia regiment through Sumter, S. C., a crowd of gentlemen and ladies had gathered at the depot to greet them, the ladies throwing bouquets to the officers and soldiers. Col. James caught one, and on his departure found in it a slip of paper, on which was written the name "Rosa Folsom." His curiosity being greatly excited, he wrote to know about the family, and received the following reply from the young lady's father: "We are descended from one who espoused the cause of liberty under Cromwell, but who died during the Protectorate. At the Restoration his estates were confiscated; and soon afterwards the sons embarked for America, and landed at Albemarle Sound [this must have

[There has been a tradition that the father of the Folsom family was, in England, John Smith, and that his name was changed during the voyage to America. I find little ground for this opinion. John Foulsham, son of Adam, was baptized in Hingham, Eng., in 1615. In 1627, Adam Folsham, alias Smith, made his will, naming three sons,—John, Adam, and Peter. John Foulsham married, in Hingham, Eng., October 4, 1636, Mary, daughter of Edward Gilman, who was baptized August 6, 1615. In 1638 they came to Hingham, Mass., and in 1639 Adam Foulsham followed them. If the family name was ever Smith, it seems it must have been changed before the birth and baptism of John Foulsham, the emigrant to Hingham, Mass.

In 1842, "The History and Antiquities of Foulsham, in Norfolk," by Rev. Thomas Quarles, M. A., was printed in London. He gives but little information respecting the Foulsham family, as they seem to have settled in Hingham and vicinity at least four hundred years ago. He quotes from "Blomefield's History of Norfolk" the statement that "John deFoulsham was an eloquent, unflinching opponent of the corruptions of the times." In a "Treatise De Matrimonio" he zealously defends the marriage of priests, in an age so debased that such a doctrine was totally at variance with the teachings of the Roman church.

Another of his works was "De Arte Praedicandi," or, "The Art of Preaching." "In this he strenuously urged the utility and necessity of public preaching," which was little practised in that age. He is reported to have been himself a model of pulpit eloquence.—J. C.]

[John Folsham<sup>1</sup> sold his land in Hingham, Mass., about 1655, and removed with his family to Exeter, N. H. He lived on the west side of the river, where the first settlements in Exeter were made; but three of his sons lived in the east part of the town. His sons and grandsons owned much land upon what was called "Rocky hill." He was engaged as a surveyor in running the lines between Exeter and Dover, and while in this business discovered a meadow, some eight or ten miles north-west of the village, which was supposed to be of much value on account of the hay which could be made on it.

Some of his children, when old enough to leave home, returned, probably to their relatives in Massachusetts, and married there ; but all eventually settled near their father in Exeter.

In advanced life he became unfortunately involved in his pecuniary affairs, but was fortunate in having sons able and willing to afford him the aid he needed to retain a home for himself and his aged companion, who lived about ten years after his death, in 1681.

Judging him in the light of the period when he lived, we must consider him a very intelligent, earnest, enterprising man. He may have been sometimes more enthusiastic than judicious, and so have been found in advance of his age ; but he was a decided Christian, ready to sacrifice wealth, ease, and popularity for the sake of principle ;—and he successfully trained up six sons to become efficient laborers in laying the foundations of the commonwealth of New Hampshire.—J. C.]

EXPLANATIONS.

The dates before 1752 are in old style, and therefore, when from January 1 to March 25 I find double date,—e. g., February 15, 1725-6,—I use the last figure to indicate the historical year, in preference to the civil and ecclesiastical year which began March 25.

The order in which I name the children is not always the order of their births. The birth dates cannot always be found. In giving the birthplace of a family of ten children, the name is not repeated ten times, but only in connection with the first born.

As most of the family remained in New Hampshire for one hundred and fifty years from their settlement here, the name of this state is not often given in connection with the towns in it. Towns in other states are usually attended with the names of the states. The full-faced figures in parentheses on the left side of the page show the order in which the same name is found as the head of a family.

The small figure at the right of a name denotes the generation of the person, dating from the emigrant, John<sup>1</sup>.

Abbreviations. Abt., about; b., born; bapt., baptized; ch., child or children; d., died; m., married; unm., unmarried.

The children of the families are numbered by the Roman capitals, as I, II, III.

The grandchildren by Arabic figures, as 1, 2, 3.

A passage followed by an interrogation point (?) enclosed in brackets [ ] indicates that the words included are doubtful.

In spelling, I usually follow the briefest and latest form.

The name of the family is spelled in some eight or ten different ways, the same person spelling his name differently at different periods of his life.

No. 1.

JOHN FOLSOM<sup>1</sup>, bapt. 1615, in Hingham, Eng. (a town abt. 14 miles W. S. W. of Norwich, and 97 N. E. of London, in the neighborhood of a small lake abt. a mile in circumference, and having a fine old stone church with a tower and a chime of eight bells), m., 4 Oct., 1636, Mary, oldest ch. of Edward and Mary Clark Gilman; d. at Exeter, N. H., 27 Dec., 1681. His widow survived him 8 or 10 years.

The names of the ch. of John Folsham and his wife, Mary (Gilman) Folsham, are found in the diary of Rev. Peter Hobart, of Hingham, Mass., who recorded the date at which he baptized each of them.

(2.) I. SAMUEL<sup>2</sup>, bapt. 3 Oct., 1641. He m., 22 Dec., 1663, MARY (dau. of Judge Henry) ROBIE, of Hampton, and d. in 1700. We suppose he was b. in 1638 or 1639. There is a tradition that one son was b. on the ocean during the voyage. If so, probably he was the one. He was a "husbandman," and engaged less in public affairs than his father and some of his brothers. He was probably not so successful in pecuniary matters as some of his younger brothers. He dealt some in lumber, and in 1667 promised a large quantity to Mr. — Cutts, of Portsmouth. Being paid in advance, he mortgaged his land to secure the delivery of it. In Jan., 1692, he was appointed administrator upon the estate of "John & Mary Folsom both deceased." In the performance of this business, he provoked his brother, Dea. John, who in his passion, by violent language, exposed himself to prosecution for a violation of the law; but after some deliberation the trouble was amicably settled. Samuel had 6 ch.*

(3.) II. JOHN<sup>2</sup>, b. [1640-41?] bapt. 3 Oct., 1641. The two marks in the diary, which have been read "11" (i. e., Oct. 11), I read as commas standing for idem—"the same" (i. e., the 3d of Oct., the same day with Samuel).

He is called in the records Deacon John, to distinguish him from his son, his nephews, and his grandsons named John. He m., 10 Nov., 1675, ABIGAIL (dau. of Abraham) PERKINS, of Hampton; made his will 24 Nov., 1715, and d. before Dec. 6, 1715, aged about 75. A copy of his will is contained in the Appendix, Note A.

Dea. John Folsom<sup>2</sup> was a man of high standing and good property, active both in church and in political affairs. He is among the worthies of the first centuries of Exeter, of whom Judge Smith, in his centennial address, July 4, 1838, says that "they filled acceptably the municipal and public offices conferred upon them." He was frequently sent to the general assembly.

In the first volume of "Provincial Papers," already quoted with reference to his father, there is a deposition (pp. 554-7) from the son, as constable, bearing date 1684, "that he had received a list of names in Exeter, with fines annexed, amounting to 50£; that he was required by the Governor & council to go & demand the sum; but the people refused to pay, saying the taxes should be raised by the General Assembly, which answer he gave to Gov. & council: whereupon they took the scroll out of his hands & delivered it to Thos. Thurton, provost marshal, & he was ordered by a warrant from the Secretary to aid the said Thurton."

This summary treatment was honorable to him from such a government as that of Cranfield's, and shows how "acceptably," at least to the people if not to the party in power, he filled that special office of constable by forbearing to push the demand for

* Samuel was doubtless the eldest, for his name stands first on the record, and he m. some 12 years before John, and d. 15 years before him. The office of administrator on his father's estate was given him, in accordance with the custom, which was to offer it to the widow or oldest son before any others of the family.

oppressive and unconstitutional taxes and fines. The following quotation from the same portion of the "Provincial Papers" will show the sort of "aid" he gave to the provost marshal, and that he could turn with wrath and contempt on the public foes, deacon though he was. Under date of December 29, 1684, there is a deposition of this Thurton, that "being sent to collect those fines, and one of 50 shillings on John Foulsham for neglecting the duty of his office as constable, Foulsham told him that if he came to levy execution at his house, he should meet him with a red-hot spit and scalding water; and bade him go, like a rogue as he was." The women of the Gilman family must also have some of the fame of this affair; for the provost marshal adds, that "being at the house of Edward Gilman [son of the first Edward, and lost at sea abt. 1653] the wife of James Gilman [grandson of the first Edward, b. 1659] told him she had provided a kettle of scalding water for him, if he should come." He thought it rather rough treatment, especially as no money had yet been demanded of them. In one instance, in which Dea. John's wife had been slandered by his sister-in-law Hannah, wife of his brother Nathaniel, he was determined the offender should smart for it; and accordingly, making complaint before Mr. Commissioner Dalton, he obtained sentence against her that she should "make acknowledgment at some public town-meeting."

(4.) III. NATHANIEL<sup>2</sup>, bapt. 2 June, 1644, m. (1), June 9, 1674, HANNAH (dau. of John) FARROW, of Ipswich, Mass. Her name has been written "Faxon," but it is evidently a mistake. In 1677 he took the oath of allegiance, and was admitted a citizen of Exeter; had a son Samuel, b. in Exeter, 18 April, 1679, who seems to have been taxed here in 1714, after which his name disappears.

It has been difficult to obtain much more satisfactory information about the family of Nathaniel<sup>2</sup>, except that in 1796 he had a second wife, MARY, who signed with him a deed of land in Exeter. He was living in 1714, but in 1725 his widow, Mary, was taxed. I suppose he had, by both the first and the second wife, a large family. Under the Family No. 4 I shall give the names of some who were probably his children.

(5.) IV. ISRAEL<sup>2</sup>, bapt. 26 April, 1646, who m. — —, and had Israel<sup>3</sup>, b. ——. Israel<sup>2</sup> received a grant of land, 10 Oct., 1664, and is supposed to have d. not long afterward.

Israel<sup>3</sup>, a farmer, on land perhaps the same granted to his father, lived in Newmarket, south of the village, near his cousin Jeremiah<sup>3</sup>. He was in 1730 a proprietor of the town of Nottingham, and owned lands in various places. April 5, 1718, Israel Folsom deeded to Joseph Judkins land in Exeter, near Lamprey river, formerly owned by Moses Gilman. This may have been Israel<sup>2</sup>, more probably Israel<sup>3</sup>.

(6.) V. PETER<sup>2</sup>, bapt. 8 April, 1649, m., 6 May, 1678, SUSANNA COUSINS (COFFIN, Kelley says), of Wells, Me. He lived on the Hampton road, east of the village, on the south-west corner where the road leaves the Hampton road and goes to Kensington. It has generally been in possession of the Folsom family. He had 6 ch.; was an active business man, and he seems to have acquired a large amount of property. He has always borne the title of "Lieut. Peter." He d. at Exeter in 1717.

VI. MARY<sup>2</sup>, bapt. 13 April, 1751, m., 12 June, 1672, GEORGE MARSH (son of Hugh), of Newbury, Mass. On the 18th of May, 1672, her father "gave sd. Geo. & Mary 100 Acres of land" in the south part of Exeter. They had 13 ch. b. in Newbury. The father d. in 1699, aged 53. The children were

1. George<sup>3</sup>, b. 6 Oct., 1674, and d. probably unm.
2. John<sup>3</sup>, b. 18 Aug., 1676; m. (1), 1700, Mary Angier, of Reading, Mass., and had John<sup>4</sup>, b. 27 Feb., 1702. He m. (2), Martha —.
3. Mary, b. 1678; d. an infant.
4. Stephen, b. 19 Sept., 1677, and d. 10 Feb., 1684.
5. James, b. 19 June, 1681.
6. Israel, b. 4 April, 1683; m. dau. of Joseph Hall, of Greenland.
7. Sarah, b. 6 July, 1685; m. H. Dearing, of Winter Harbor.
8. Stephen, b. 16 Nov., 1687; d. unm. before 1718.
9. Henry, b. 31 July, 1697; d. young.
10. George, b. 24 April, 1698; m. Abigail —; d. 17 Nov., 1761.
11. Jane, b. 8 May, 1699; d. young.
12. Hugh, b. — (probably the eldest); m. Sarah (dau. of Joseph Coaker).
13. Mary, b. —; m. Jacob Hook, of Salisbury, Mass.

(7.) VII. EPHRAIM<sup>2</sup>, b. 28:12:54 (Hingham records), probably 23 Feb. 1654 (O. S.); bapt. 25 Feb., 1654; m. PHALTIEL

(dau. of Lt. Ralph) HALL, of Dover. She administered on his estate, and lived his widow 25 years after he was killed by Indians. They lived in the part of Exeter since called South Newmarket, and owned land which still remains in possession of their descendants. He was shot by an Indian as he was riding home from the village of Exeter, 11 June, 1709.* Their ch. were 7.

SECOND GENERATION.

I. MARY<sup>3</sup>, b. 27 Sept., 1664; m., 30 Nov., 1687, EZEKIEL (son of David and Ann) LADD, b. in Haverhill, Mass., 16 Sept., 1654, and had b. in Haverhill

1. Lydia, b. 18 Feb., 1688.

2. Mary, b. 17 Jan., 1690.

3. John, b. 6 May, 1693.

4. Nathaniel, b. 12 Nov., 1695.

They lived in Haverhill, Mass., but in 1697 were in Exeter, and sold their land in Haverhill.

II. EBENEZER<sup>3</sup>, b. [1666?]; m. HANNAH [SMITH, of Exeter?]. Sold to Abr. Folsom, in 1706, his land in Exeter; removed to Hampton, where he bought land, in 1712. In 1718, his seat in the meeting-house was the second long seat mentioned in the records of Stratham, where he lived till 1749-50, and where he d. "Hanah folsom [his wife] had the third long seat" in the same house. I am not able to learn that he had any children.

III. RUTH<sup>3</sup>, b. abt. 1670, m., 4 March, 1692, MOSES NORRIS, b. 4 Aug., 1670. On the 9 April, 1698, her father deeded land in Exeter to her husband.

IV. SAMUEL<sup>3</sup>. When his mother and his elder brother Eben.

* In 1684, April 14, for Robert Mason, proprietor of the province, the saw-mill at Pickpocket, with logs, boards, &c., was attached as the property of John Gilman and Ephraim Foulsham, of Exeter. This was probably an attempt to collect money in payment for their land, which had been paid for fifty years before this date.

refused to administer on the estate of his father, on the 27 Feb., 1700-01, he was appointed administrator. In 1705 he bought land in Hampton, and settled near the line of Portsmouth. He and his neighbor, Elias Philbrook, were taxed some years in both towns; but the legislature voted that neither of them should be taxed any more till the towns fixed the line, and found where they belonged. They belonged to the parish of Greenland, when that was incorporated. Samuel m. ABIGAIL (widow of Thomas) Foss, and dau. of Abr. Cole, of Hampton. In 1723 he united with the Greenland church, and d. leaving property, but no ch.

V. ISRAEL<sup>8</sup>, b. —, m. RACHEL —. Was a weaver, and owned land in Exeter and Stratham. He removed to Ashford, Conn., about 1720, where he purchased lands between 1724 and 1730. In Oct., 1724, Israel<sup>8</sup> joined the Congregational church in Ashford; and Nov. 1, 1724, his 4 ch. were bapt.

(8.) 1. SAMUEL<sup>4</sup>, b. in Exeter abt. 1716, m. ANN BINGHAM, and had 9 ch. Abt. 1740 he went from Windham to Stratford, Conn.; lived on a farm, and had a blacksmith shop; d. in Ohio abt. 1800. He was father of Gloriana, who m. Sir John Sterling, of Edinburgh, Scot.

2. Nathaniel<sup>4</sup>. 3. Mary. 4. Israel<sup>4</sup>.
5. Ebenezer<sup>4</sup> was bapt. 31 March, 1728.

Samuel and his wife (Anne) were members of the Episcopal church in Stratford, Conn., which was organized abt. the time they removed there.

VI. DELIVERANCE<sup>8</sup>, single woman, lived with her brother Samuel in Greenland. In 1723, she, with her mother, Mary, and her sister-in-law, Abigail, united with the church there.

I. ABIGAIL<sup>8</sup>, b. 23 Dec., 1676; m. EDWARD GILMAN.

(9.) II. JOHN<sup>8</sup>, b. abt. 1680; m. MARY SEWALL, and d. 1724-5. They had 4 ch.,—the youngest b. after the death of the father. In 1715 he lived in the south-west part of Exeter, south-west of the river and of the road to Kingston, on a farm near Kings Falls, and was called "Kings Falls John."

By a special act of the legislature, Dec. 2, 1743, a committee was appointed to divide the real estate, which the widow, by her industry, had preserved "near 20 years, tho. the youngest child, Josiah, was not yet of full age."

III. SARAH<sup>s</sup>, m., before 1715 (2d wife), NATH'L STEVENS, of Salisbury, Exeter, and Stratham. She is thought to have had

1. John<sup>a</sup>. 2. Abigail<sup>a</sup>.
3. Catharine<sup>a</sup>, w. of Richard Sinkler.
4. Sarah, w. of Eben Barker.
5. Ann, m., 11 Sept., 1745, Jonathan True.
6. Mary, w. of Joseph Burley.
7. Benjamin, b. 19 May, 1716. 8. Daniel, b. 30 Dec., 1717.

IV. MARY<sup>s</sup> m. — — —, and d. before her father, leaving 2 children, who are mentioned, not by name, in her father's will.

V. LYDIA<sup>s</sup> m. ROBT. STOCKMAN, of Kingston, and had

VI. MERCY<sup>s</sup> m. JAS. DUDLEY (son of Stephen, grandson of Rev. Sam'l D.). Their children, b. in (what is now) Brentwood, were

1. James<sup>a</sup>, b. 1715, m. Deborah Bean, and d. 1761.
2. Abigail, b. 1716, w. of Dea. Aaron Young, of Kingston.
3. Samuel, b. 1720. His 9 ch. settled mostly in Maine.
4. John<sup>a</sup>, b. 1725, who m. Elis. Gilman, and went to Raymond, and was judge of superior court, 1776, till his death in 1805.
5. Joseph<sup>a</sup>, b. 1728; m. Susanna Ladd, and lived in Raymond; had 7 ch.
6. Joanna<sup>a</sup> m. Daniel Ladd, of Deerfield.
7. Mercy<sup>a</sup> m. — Emerson.

(10.) VII. ABRAHAM<sup>s</sup>, b. abt. 1678 (I suppose), m., (1) 1703, ANNA (dau. of Aquila) CHASE, of Newbury, and lived on the north side of the road to Hampton. At his death, in Exeter, Dec., 1740, he left a widow (ELIZABETH) and 4 ch., who inherited much property.

(11.) VIII. JEREMIAH<sup>s</sup> [b. 1680?], m. [1705?] ELIZABETH —, and settled, abt. 1712 on one hundred acres of land inherited from his father, just south of Newmarket village, where in 1719 he built a brick house, which stood till 1874. He was an enterprising business man, and left by will much land to his 8 ch. at his death in 1757.

(12.) IX. JONATHAN<sup>s</sup>, b. abt. 1685, m. ANNA (dau of Nath'l) LADD, grand-dau. of Hon. John Gilman. He inherited the homestead in the east part of the town, where he became wealthy and influential. At his death, in 1740, he left a large estate to his 12 ch. His widow (Anna) administered. He was the father of Gen. Nathaniel and Col. Samuel, prominent citizens of Exeter, who both d. in May, 1730.

(13.) II. A NATHANIEL<sup>s</sup>, b. abt. 1680 (see Note B, Appendix), m. SUSANNA —, and settled in Quamscot before 1709, which became a part of Stratham. In Aug., 1710, he was sentinel in Capt. John Gilman's company. Abt. 1730 he returned and bought lands on the road to Copy Hole, in the part of Exeter which in 1742 became Brentwood. He and his family for many years continued to spell their names in the old way—Foulsham or "Folsham." In 1743 he sold his homestead to his son John<sup>4</sup>, and was soon after killed by the Indians in Nottingham, whither he had gone to aid in protecting the settlers. When his companions returned, he remained alone, and was murdered at the same time with Robert Beard and Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson. The men were at their dinner in Beard's house when they were shot.

III. [A JEREME FOLSOM?] m. MARY —, and bought land in Stratham. We find no records of his children.

IV. [EDWARD FOLSOM?] He received a grant of land in 1725, and again in 1732, but disappears soon afterward.

No. 9.

JN. FOLSOM<sup>8</sup> (Dea. Jn.<sup>2</sup>, Jn.<sup>1</sup>) and his wife, MARY, had 3 ch. b. in Exeter. Among original papers in the probate office of this county (not recorded), I find the following, dated 26 Nov., 1745:

"By virtue of an Act of the Gen'l. Court,—to make Division of the Estate of John Fousam, late of Exeter dec'd., We have surveyed— & divided—as follows—"

(Signed) "Benj. Thing, Daniel Gilman & John Gilman."

They describe the homestead, near King's Falls, &c., which, if not the same, was near the spot occupied by the above John Folsom<sup>8</sup> thirty years before. It seems as if it must be the same man who had a wife Mary, who petitioned for this act of the general court. They name only 3 ch.,—Susanna, Mary, and Josiah.

By long and perplexing study of the records, I find that there is a mistake in the Folsom Family, p. 15; that John Folsom<sup>8</sup> (Jn.<sup>2</sup>, Jn.<sup>1</sup>) was not father of Peter<sup>4</sup>, of Newmarket, b. 1718, who had 12 ch., nor of Abr.<sup>4</sup>, a joiner, who m. Sarah (dau. of John<sup>8</sup>, Peter<sup>2</sup>), but that John Folsom<sup>8</sup> (Dea. Jn.<sup>2</sup>, Jn.<sup>1</sup>), a farmer in 1718 near King's Falls,—1678–1725,—m. Mary Sewall, and had b. in Exeter 4 ch., and d. 1724–5.

I. SUSANNA<sup>4</sup>, b. 10 May 1718, m. (1), at Kingston, 2 Nov., 1738, Lt. JONATHAN BRADLEY, b. in Haverhill, Mass., 1717 (son of Abr. and Abi. Philbrick Bradley). He settled first with his father in Penacook, and afterwards in Exeter. They had 4 ch.

1. Mary<sup>5</sup>, b. 2 Sept., 1739.
2. Susanna<sup>5</sup>, b. 10 Aug., 1741, m. (1) — Emerson, of Chester, (2) — Virgin, of Concord.
3. Ann<sup>5</sup>, b. 11 Feb., 1743.
4. Josiah<sup>5</sup>, b. 20 Sept., 1745, d. in Chester; had 2 sons.

The father, Jonathan Bradley, was killed by the Indians at Penacook (Concord), Aug. 11, 1746. In 1760, when closing the administration of the estate, she is called the wife of John Bradley. In 1748 she owned land from her father's estate northwest of the road to Kingston, near King's Falls.

II. MARY<sup>4</sup>, b. 1719, m. SAMUEL (brother of Jonathan) BRADLEY, b. 1721, and had b. in Penacook,—

1. Hon. John<sup>5</sup>, b. 13 Feb., 1743, m. Hannah Ayer, and lived with his widowed mother at the house of his grandfather, and inherited the homestead. He had

Joseph Cilley, in behalf of the state, a pair of pistols which had been the property of Col. Stephen Holland, the tory absentee. He kept a public house, as his widow continued to do after his death. (See "Exeter in 1776," by Hon. C. H. Bell.)

It was at his house that Gen. Washington stopped when he visited Exeter, in the autumn of 1789. He lived on the southeast corner of Front and Water streets, in the house now owned by Dr. George W. Dearborn.

(36.) VII. TRUEWORTHY<sup>4</sup>, b. abt. 1734. "Not so well to do in the world as his brothers, the Colonel & the General, but superior to them both, in humor & wit." Married MARY WEST, of Boston, and had 5 ch. It seems that Jonathan<sup>8</sup>, their father, though wealthy, believed in giving his sons each a trade. The General was a mechanic, Col. Samuel a tailor, Trueworthy a cordwainer, &c.

(37.) VIII. JOSIAH<sup>4</sup>, b. 5 Nov., 1735, a hair-dresser and wig-maker, fond of travel, and not very successful in gathering worldly gear. He m., 27 May, 1762, ELIZABETH (b. 23 April, 1742), dau. of Dr. JOSIAH GILMAN, of Exeter, son of Judge Nicholas Gilman. "Their Home was in Dover, on the rising ground southwardly from the village, & had a fine outlook, over fields & village, & toward river & sky & distant hills; but it was very humble,—& the income of its owner—quite meagre. He had indeed rich stores of anecdote, & of results of observation,—making him one of the most entertaining men of his day ; but this did not bring comforts to his household, nor advantages for his children. His four sons, one by one, early left the cabin-home, & went forth into the great world." "And God was with the lads." The parents found a home in their old age with their youngest son (Nathaniel), in Portsmouth, where the mother d. 3 Aug., 1812, and the father Feb. 12, 1816, aged 81.

IX. SARAH<sup>4</sup>, w. of JOHN NELSON, ship-carpenter, who d. at middle age, in Exeter, leaving 7 ch. Her father was professor of rhetoric and oratory in Harvard college. Charles Folsom was a distinguished scholar, well known by his literary labors. On account of ill health he relinquished the study of divinity, and in 1816 accepted the office of chaplain and midshipmen's teacher of mathematics, in the 74-gun ship, Washington. In 1817, he was Charge d'Affaires at Tunis, where he remained till 1819. One of the lads under his instruction went with him to Tunis, and continued his studies. Nearly 50 years afterward, a naval officer of renown visited Boston, and, after the public honors of reception, visited Mr. Folsom in Cambridge. It was Vice-Admiral Farragut, who in the defence of his country had risen to national fame, and now returned to express his gratitude to his early instructor for the training which fitted him for the work he had done for his country in her time of need. When the Admiral left New England he sent to his aged teacher, as a memento of his affection and regard, a magnificent vase, engraved from sketches drawn by his own hand. He was some time librarian at Harvard college, and from 1845 to 1856 librarian of the Boston Atheneum. He died in Cambridge, Mass., 8 Nov., 1872, leaving "the most fragrant of the memories still blooming from the dust." Of him it was said, "His kindness was warm, constant, and unselfish. No one ever knew him to refuse what it was in his power to grant, or to think first of himself, when the question was whether he should benefit himself or another."

About 100 years after the settlement of the Folsom family in Exeter, their descendants began to drift away to the east, and became more numerous in Maine than in any other state. One who knows many of them says,—“As a whole this branch of the family have been good citizens and honest men (some not quite up to par). They have done their share to make the state, and have served the state in its legislature, in military affairs, and as officers of towns and cities. They have by honest industry secured a fair share of this world's goods.”

1. Gustavus Decatur<sup>8</sup>.

III. ABRAHAM DECATUR<sup>7</sup>, b. 5 Feb., 1814, d. in Meriden, N. H., 18 May, 1834, of a fever contracted while attending his sick brother, Capt. Joseph L. Folsom, then a student in Gilman-ton academy. Abraham D. Folsom was a young man of "sterling worth, an ardent student," holding a high position in the class that was soon to graduate at Kimball Union Academy. An eminent lawyer whom he consulted, during the settlement of his father's estate, said he "exhibited the clearest powers in grasping legal points of any lad he had ever met."

IV. CAPT. JOSEPH L.<sup>7</sup>, b. 19 May, 1816, lost his father at the early age of 8 years. His mother removed to Northfield, for the education of her children. In 1836 he entered the military academy at West Point, and graduated 1840. He served as lieutenant under Gen. Worth, in the war against the Seminoles in Florida, and conducted a body of Indians to their new home in the West. After serving in various places in the North-west, he was in 1844 ordered to the military academy at West Point, as instructor. In 1846 he was sent under Col. Stevenson to California, as Quartermaster of the 1st Regiment N. Y. Vols. He landed in the spring of 1847, and in selecting a site for the army stores, he chose the village Yerba Buena, soon called San Francisco. Here he invested his funds, and engaged with deep interest in the improvement of the place. The discovery of gold aided in the rapid development of the new city, and in a few years it is said his fortune had risen to eleven millions, and a magnificent street was called by his name. Amidst all the cares and toils of his civil and military life, he continued his interest in literary pursuits, and remained the same quiet, gentlemanly companion. He was cut down in the prime of life, and if his surviving relatives reaped no benefit from his immense fortune, he left them the reputation of an honest man, whose pure life and firm integrity have established a character beyond reproach.

V. CHARLES P.<sup>r</sup>, b. 30 Jan., 1819, d. 16 Dec., 1819.

VI. FRANK C.<sup>r</sup>, b. 30 Nov., 1821, d. in Philadelphia, 9 Feb., 1846; not m. He was attending his last course of lectures at the Jefferson Medical College, and died of what the faculty called small-pox, though he would not believe it. A few years before, he had been vaccinated, taken the disease, recovered, and for six weeks cared for that class of patients in the hospital. He was a fine scholar, pure in principles, correct in habits, and enthusiastic in his profession. He had been appointed a surgeon in the U. S. navy, and was looking forward to a useful life, with flattering prospects, but was suddenly cut down as he was about to enter his chosen field of labor.

In 1841 he resigned at Bridgeton, to enter the ministry, and preached 6 months at Pelham, and 3 months at Kingston. Early in 1843 he left New England for his health, and took charge of the academy in Myerstown, Lebanon county, Penn., for 3 years, being often called to supply destitute churches, and to aid ministers in the vicinity, of different denominations. He was, in June 23, 1845, ordained an Evangelist, by a council at Fryeburg, Me., where he had for years been well known. In 1846 he was chosen Professor of Mathematics in Franklin college, Lancaster, Penn., and in 1850 became principal of the academy in Harrisburg, Penn. In 1852 he accepted a call to the Congregational church in Marshall, Ill., where he was pastor 12 years, during one of which he was professor and chaplain in the Terre Haute Female College, his people supplying the pulpit most of the time. While preparing to leave the state, on account of disease from malaria, he for one year supplied the church in Onarga, Iroquois county, Ill., and aided in repairing their church. In the fall and winter of 1865-66, he preached 4 months at South Paris, Me., from which place he was called to Deerfield, N. H. After 6 years of labor, during one of which more than 50 persons united with the church, his health failed again, and he accepted a call to Kingston, a smaller parish, where he had preached 29 years before. After more than 7 years of labor, during which the parsonage and the meeting-house were repaired, he resigned and moved to Exeter, where, since 1879, he has devoted much time to the preparation of this volume. WILL OF DEA. JOHN FOLSOM<sup>s</sup>, EXETER, NOVEMBER, 1715.

I John Foulsum of Exeter, in the Province of Newhampshire, being weak of body, but of sound & perfect memory, praise be therefore given to Almighty God, do make & ordain this my present last will & testament, in manner & form following. That is to say, First & principally, I commend my soul into the hands of Almighty God, hoping through the merits, death & passion of my Savior, Jesus Christ, to have full & free pardon & forgiveness of all my sins, & to Inherit everlasting life; And my body I commit to the Earth to be decently buried, at the discretion of my Executrix, hereafter named. And as touching the disposition of such temporal estate, as it hath pleased God, in his providence to bestow upon me, I give & dispose of as followeth.

Imp'r. I will that my Just debts & funeral charges be payed.

Item. I give unto my son Abraham Foulsum, four acres of salt marsh, at Hampton, to be taken out of the South end of the great Lot; & I give him three fifths of my Lower pasture, in Exeter, known by the name of Pine hill pasture, he taking his part next to Jonathan Smith's land.

Item. I give to my son John Foulsum, twenty acres of land, lying upon Pickpocket Road, on this side of the great River; & thirty acres, on the other side of the great River, where now he lives.

Item. I give to my son Jonathan Fousam my house & barn & the land adjoining to it; & all my marsh, both in Hampton & Exeter not already disposed of, & three acres of land in the common field, & three acres of swamp in the neck, & the whole of my upper & lower pasture, not already disposed of, & my part in the saw mill.

Item. My will is that my sons, Abraham & Jonathan shall not have their portions till after my wife's decease.

Item. I give to my son Jeremiah Fousam, an hundred acres of land at Lamperele River where now he lives.

Item. I give to my daughter Abigail Gillman, seven pounds.

Item. I give to my daughter Sarah Stevens twelve pounds.

Item. I give to my daughter Mary's two children each five pounds apiece.

Item. I give to my son John Fousam, & to my daughters, Lydia Stockman & Mercy Dudley all my Land at the white pine plains & over the great River, known by the name of Fousam's Meadow, being by estimation, two hundred acres, be it more or less to be equally divided between them.

Item. My will is that my son Jonathan Fousam shall pay my just debts & funeral charges, & that he shall pay his two sisters, Abigail Gilman & Sarah Stevens, their portions as above named, & likewise his two cousins, my daughter Mary's children immediately after his mothers decease.

Item. I give to my well beloved wife Abigail Fousam, the use of my dwelling house & barn & the land, adjoining it,—of my saw mill & all my marsh both at Hampton & Exeter, & all my upper & lower pasture lying by son Abraham's & my land both in the common field & neck, during her life; and I give her the whole of my stock & moveable estate both within doors & without, as her own proper estate, & to dispose of to whom she sees fit.

Finally. My will is & I do hereby appoint my beloved wife, Abigail Fousam, to be full and sole executrix to this my last will & testament, and do hereby revoke disannul and make void all former wills and Testaments by me heretofore made.

In witness whereof I the said John Fousam have to this my last will & Testament set my hand & seal this twenty fourth day of November Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and fifteen Annoq. R: Regis George Britanniaë &c. Secundo. Signed Sealed & owned in the presence of,—

THE INDIAN MASSACRE AT NOTTINGHAM.

[From the Exeter News-Letter.]

EXETER, Jan. 1, 1881.

EDITOR EXETER NEWS-LETTER :—In collecting material for the genealogy of the Folsom family, I recently received from a friend, Thomas Folsom, of West Epping, an account of the murder by Indians of Nathaniel Folsom, Robert Beard, and Elizabeth, wife of Andrew Simpson, in Nottingham, as it has been preserved by tradition among the descendants of Folsom, which I think ought to be preserved, but has never, to my knowledge, been printed. Mr. D. L. Harvey, who wrote the following account, received it from the grandchildren of Folsom, Paul Ladd and his sister Susan, both of whom have been dead for many years. Nathaniel Folsom is supposed to have been the son of Nathaniel, and grandson of John the emigrant, who came in 1638 from Hingham, in England, with his father-in-law, Edward Gilman, and his sons, and settled in Hingham, Mass. Soon after 1650 they came to Exeter. Nathaniel, the third son of the first John, was born in Hingham, Mass., in 1644, and married there, June 9, 1674, Hannah Farrow. He had a son Samuel, born in Exeter, April 18, 1679; and it is probable his son Nathaniel was born in 1676. He is supposed to have had younger sons,—Jerame, Nathaniel, and Edward,—and perhaps a daughter, Miriam, who in 1734 married Joseph Bean, Sr., of Kingston, and had eight children. She died March 24, 1752. The Nathaniel Folsom who was killed in September, 1742, was about 66 years of age at the time of his death. He lived in that part of Exeter which is now called Brentwood. I will give the account of this massacre substantially in the words of Mr. Harvey.

During the war of 1744, with the French and Indians, Nottingham was one of the frontier towns, and for several years the settlers in these towns were kept in a state of constant alarm. Many of the inhabitants returned to the older settlements from which they had come, and the few who remained to till the fields and secure the crops that grew in them were compelled to seek shelter in garrison houses nights, and often days, when the enemy were near. There was no safety for man or beast when exposed to the attacks of the cruel savages. There was a garrison at Nottingham Square, an elevated spot, from which the smokes and fires of the Indian camps could be seen at a great distance. Soldiers were drafted from the older towns to guard the inhabitants of the frontiers. If these people were murdered, the towns joining them would be entirely exposed to inroads of the savages. A draft was made in Exeter to protect the settlers of Nottingham, each quota of soldiers to serve two weeks, and then be relieved by another quota. A young unmarried neighbor to Folsom was drafted, but the girl to whom he was engaged made such a distressing lamentation over it that Folsom volunteered to take his place, and, with the others, served out his time. His fellow-soldiers left, without waiting for the new recruits to come and take their places. But Folsom was satisfied that the Indians were about them, for the clothes which the women had spread on the walls of the garrison were cut in the night by tomahawks; and Beard entreated him to stop, saying, "I shall be killed if you go away." So he remained; and Beard went out to his home (on Fish street, opposite to Rodger's Lane, Nottingham) to cut the tops of his corn-stalks, and Folsom, with his gun, went to guard him. At noon they broke some ears of green corn, and went to the house to cook it for dinner. Folsom brought from a spring a pail of water to boil it in, and put down two ears to roast while the rest was boiling. When they had begun to eat their corn the dog growled, and Folsom caught his gun and ran to the door. The Indians instantly shot him, and he fell back into a ladder standing behind him, dead. It seems the ball struck near his heart, for the belt which he wore was long preserved in the family, and shown with the bullet-hole in it. At the same time they shot Mr. Robert Beard through the window. They then went to the house of Mrs. Simpson, having doubtless discovered that she had left the garrison and gone home, where she was about to bake some bread. One named Plasawa (or Plausawa), being the youngest, went into the house and stabbed her in the breast. He said "She blared like a calf." The other two went in and asked her if she could walk (intending, perhaps, to take her a captive to Canada). She said No; so they killed her on the spot and left the place. Some years afterwards three Indians, named Sunda, Sabatis, and Plasawa, when intoxicated, told Morrill, the son-in-law of Folsom, that at this time they had been some time in the vicinity; that they had lain three days under a pile of boards in Exeter, and prowled about in the nights; that their object was to see if the whites were off their guard. They said they did not know as they killed the old, grey-bearded man; but if they did they had killed a bonny spry one, for he jumped over the bars with a pail of water in his hand, and did not spill a drop. They said they did not mean to kill Mrs. Simpson, but to carry her to Canada, hoping, doubtless, to get a large sum for her redemption; but Plasawa had never been out scouting before, and he went in and stabbed her. As she could not travel after receiving such a wound, they finished their work by striking their tomahawks into her head and taking her life. Mrs. Simpson was a large woman, and also lame, so that she could not make a long journey through the forest on foot. The bodies of these persons,—Folsom, Beard, and Mrs. Simpson,—were buried, as I was informed by Col. Joseph Cilley, at Nottingham Square, in a spot back of where the garrison then stood, north of J. H. Butler's house. An account by Mr. Harvey of the death of the two older Indians, by violence, may be the subject of a future communication.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE DEATH OF THE INDIANS SABATIS AND SANDA, WHO KILLED BEARD, FOLSOM, AND MRS. SIMPSON IN NOTTINGHAM.

EXETER, MARCH 1, 1881.

EDITOR EXETER NEWS-LETTER:—There are, as we should expect, when we consider the circumstances, different accounts of this event. There was no reporter on the ground, and we could not expect the men who did the deeds would put the facts on record and publish them. By so doing they would not only expose themselves to the vengeance of the Indians, but to punishment by the laws of the land. The children of the murdered persons would desire the punishment of the murderers. If their neighbors had knowledge of the transaction, there were many reasons why they would not publish the facts. The tradition which I have received from Mr. D. L. Harvey of Epping, he received from the nephew and niece of Morrill, a son-in-law of Folsom, who seems to have been the most prominent man in taking the lives of these Indians. Henry Morrill married, in Kingston, Jan. 30, 1739, Susanna, daughter of Nathaniel Folsom, of Exeter. They joined the church there, and had five children baptized between 1742 and 1752. In 1749 he was one of the proprietors of Stevens town, called Salisbury in 1768. Those Indians who had killed and plundered the early settlers in Nottingham could not be contented, but continued to hover about the frontiers. In 1752, some years after the murder of Folsom and his friends, Sabatis, with another Indian named Christi, came to Canterbury, and for more than a month were hospitably entertained. Still, when they left, they took with them as prisoners two negroes, of whom one escaped and the other was sold to a French officer at Crown Point. The next year Sabatis returned again, with two associates, Sanda and Plausawa. When reproached for his misconduct on the year before they became very insolent, and, it is said, threatened some persons who proposed to trade with them. But I will proceed to Mr. Harvey's account. Some men from Newbury, Mass., went up on the Merrimack river hunting cattle. On their return they informed Morril where these Indians were, and how hostile they appeared. He said he would go up and see them. They advised him not to go, but he said he was not afraid of them. [He probably knew them, and had his plan to control them.] So he went up, on horseback, and when he had found them he proposed that they go with him and spend the night at his house. They accepted the invitation, and he took their packs on his horse. That evening they were supplied with liquor at his house, and with a man named Bowen, as fond of drink as themselves, they spent most of the night in a drunken carousal. They bragged of killing Folsom, Beard, and Mrs. Simpson, probably unaware of any relationship between them and the family that was now entertaining them. At length they were overcome by liquor and fell asleep. Morril then drew the charges from their guns, and replaced the powder with sand. In the morning, after eating their breakfast, at their request Morril took their baggage on his horse to carry it to their canoes. He happened to be before them, when one of them aimed his gun at him and snapped it. Morril heard it, and turning saw the smoke of the powder that flashed in the pan. The Indian pretended that it was only a joke. They came to a spring by the way, and the Indians, after their drunkenness, were very dry. They said to Bowen and Morril, "White men drink first." Morril answered, "Indian best drink first," and all three lay down to drink. Morril seized two of the tomahawks, and told Bowen to strike one of them. Bowen said, "I cannot." Morril said, "Strike, or I will strike you." They buried the tomahawks in the heads of Sanda and Sabatis, the two older Indians, but Plausawa, the youngest, begged so earnestly for his life that they spared him. Of course he was obliged to flee for his life to his people, and the white people may have thought he was dead, and thus the report was recorded by different writers. This was done on the bank of the Merrimack, near the northerly line of Boscawen. The dead bodies were buried under a small bridge in Salisbury, which is called "Indian bridge." The graves were so shallow that the wild beasts dug up the bodies, and the next spring the bones were discovered and buried. Morril and Bowen were arrested, the grand jury found a bill against them, and they were put in irons and lodged in Portsmouth jail. On the night previous to the day of their trial, a mob, collected from the sections of the country that had suffered from the Indians, broke open the jail, and released these prisoners, or, as one says, "carried them off in triumph." Exertions were made to detect the ringleaders of the mob, but without success. The public sentiment of the community, which had suffered so much from the bloody hands of the savages, was in favor of the men who put them out of the way. As the mob returned from Portsmouth, they found, by the roadside, cooked provisions. Though no person was to be seen, they read the invitation, "Eat and welcome." It was hard for those who had suffered so much from the Indians to believe that the murder of peaceable men, women, and children was justified by the laws of war, and that the conclusion of peace between nations should protect individual murderers from punishment for their crimes. So, when Plausawa returned to his old haunts, he found his life in danger, and applied to the governor for a protection. The governor gave it to him, and, in addition, a suit of clothes and a cocked hat. On his way home he happened to call, in Exeter or Brentwood, at the house of Folsom, who had been killed only a few years before by Plausawa's companions in Nottingham. Benjamin, the youngest son, was soon missed, and when found was loading a gun to shoot the Indian. But he was kept out of the way till Plausawa was sent off beyond his reach. Mr. Harvey, who has furnished me with these facts, is great-grandson of Folsom who was killed. His grandmother was Martha Folsom, who, a few years after the death of her father, married Paul Ladd, of Exeter, who removed to Stratham, and soon after to Epping, where his mother, Lois, wife of James Harvey, was born.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

The story of Miss Folsom, the Stratford beauty, who became Lady Stirling, of Edinburgh, Scotland, will perhaps lose little of its interest if divested of some of the fictitious additions that have in a hundred years become attached to it. Few are aware that her grandfather, and probably her father, were natives of Exeter, N. H. About 1722, or 160 years ago, Israel Folsom, of Exeter, removed to Ashford, Ct., and had a son Samuel, probably born in Exeter, baptized at Ashford. Samuel Folsom married Ann Bingham, and in 1743 or 1744 removed from Windham to Stratford, Ct., where he and his wife united with the Episcopal society, which was organized about that time. He was a farmer, and had, like many other Yankees, some skill in handling tools. On his land was a blacksmith-shop, where he did his own work in iron, and perhaps sometimes did a job for a neighbor. In his family record I find nine children named, of whom the eighth was remarkable for her beauty, and when quite young was called the belle of the village. On the record her name is first Anna, and Glorianna is written after it. With respect to the way in which she became the wife of Sir John Stirling, I will allow her brother's granddaughter, Mrs. E. F. Norris, of Glens Falls, N. Y., to tell the story mostly in her own words. Mrs. Norris was brought up in the family of Rev. John Folsom, of Glens Falls, a younger brother of Lady Stirling, who was well acquainted with all the circumstances connected with this marriage. It took place just before the Revolutionary war, and so for many years she had but little intercourse with her relations. About 1768 the only son of the Baronet, Sir John Stirling, Scotland, was sent to one of the West India Islands to look after some property belonging to his mother. He was well supplied with clothing, etc. He was to write home for money, if he should need it, putting a private mark upon his letter. After a while he was taken very sick of a fever. When he wrote he forgot about putting the private mark upon his letters, and so received no answers to them, and was in a pitiable state among strangers, without funds or good health. Providentially a sea-captain, from Stratford, Ct., came to board at the same house where he was staying. He took pity on him, and kindly offered to carry him home, in his vessel, without any money. He told Stirling he could write to his father from Connecticut. He gladly accepted the offer, and sailed with him to a more healthful climate. Some time after he left, a letter came from his father in Scotland to some person in the town or near the place where he had been, inquiring for his son, John Stirling. The answer returned was, that he had been there, had been very sick, and they could not learn what had become of him. They supposed he must be dead.

When the young man had reached the home of his benefactor, refreshed by the sea voyage, he did not "travel incognito," nor assume any other name. He had no money to expend in travelling; he had given up hope of receiving aid from home. But he determined to make an honest living by the proper use of what he had kept during the days of disappointment, poverty, and sickness. The education he had received in Scotland now became his means of support, for the people of Stratford were glad to pay him for instructing their children. Among the pupils under his care was Miss Folsom, who, though about 18 years of age, was more anxious to acquire an education than to secure a husband. It is not known whether he wrote home from this place or not, but he heard nothing from home. It is not strange that under these circumstances, when he had become acquainted with her moral character and intellectual abilities, he should be captivated by her beauty, and find his affection reciprocated. They were married in 1772, and he continued in his office as teacher. After the birth of their first child, Mary, a young minister who, according to the custom of the Episcopal church, was going to Scotland to be ordained, having made the acquaintance of Stirling, offered to hunt up his father and family when he reached Scotland, and inquire why they did not answer their son when he wrote to them. Stirling seemed to think it was of no use. But the clergyman, having become interested in him, insisted upon his giving him the means of proving to them that he was their long lost son, still living. He was furnished with a list of the supplies which his parents had put up for him when he left home, such as clothing, etc., evidence to satisfy them of his identity.

His clerical friend sailed for Scotland. But he had deeply stirred up the recollections of home in the mind of the quiet teacher. He dreamed one night that he was again with his parents, in the home of his childhood, and of that private mark which he was to put upon every one of his letters, and which he had forgotten. When the young clergyman reached Scotland, he soon found the family. The mother and sister were dressed in deep mourning. When he asked them if they had a son who went to the West Indies, they commenced weeping, and said he was dead. He at last convinced them that their son was alive, telling them his circumstances. They were overjoyed, and at once wrote for him to come home on the first vessel, without waiting for his wife and child to get ready, and in due time they would send for them. He did so. It is very possible, and even probable, that the gossips, when he took leave so suddenly, concluded that he must have been an imposter, and lamented the sad condition of the deserted wife and her little daughters,—for she had a second daughter, Jane, born soon after the departure of her husband. But there is no proof that she heard nothing from him for two years, as the story says. It may have seemed a long period to the neighbors, but, after he had had time to prepare a home for her, and a large quantity of beautiful clothing was made up for his wife and children, the ship left and arrived safely in New York. She received the request to embark immediately. She left Stratford with her children, and found in the vessel everything which she needed, provided for their comfort and convenience, and a servant maid to aid her in the care of the children. She reached Scotland in due time, and her husband, as only son, succeeded to the estate and the honors of the Baronet Stirling, and she became Lady John Stirling. I have in my possession a long letter from her husband to her brother, John Folsom, Esq., merchant in Albany, and afterwards of Glens Falls, N. Y., an elder and a preacher in the Presbyterian church; and another written just after her death by her oldest daughter, Mrs. Mary Achison. She was not only a beautiful woman, but a woman of remarkable energy of character. They lived for a time near Stirling castle, and afterwards, by the request of his father, in Edinburgh, near his father's residence. They had eighteen children, of whom sixteen lived to be old enough to attend the Parish church, at the same time with their parents, one Sabbath. Though she only saw one of her father's family, a brother, after she left, she never forgot the happy days of her early life, and used to tell her daughters of the scenes through which she had passed in childhood and youth, perhaps the happiest days she ever knew,—for with wealth and honor came many trials, which she endured with Christian patience and fortitude.

[NOTE. We should remember that 120 years ago, the age of romance had not entirely past. The excitement was beginning, which resulted in the separation of the colonies from the mother country. The Post-Office Department had not perfected its arrangements for the accommodation of letter-writers. After 1774, or the time when Stirling returned to his native land, there was little harmonious intercourse between England and this part of America. Many events occurred in those stormy times which in these days would be considered improbable, if not impossible; but few of them have been preserved in the records of that period.]

LIEUTENANT JONATHAN FOLSOM<sup>4</sup>.

Lieutenant Jonathan Folsom, brother of General Nathaniel Folsom, of Exeter, though not so widely known as his brother, was not less brave or patriotic. He was born in Exeter in 1724, and married (1) a Gilman, (2) Deborah, daughter of Joseph Hall. He lived in Newmarket and in Epping, and had a large family. Late in life he made his home in New Durham, with his eldest son, Jonathan, where he died about 1800. In 1745, at the age of 21, he was lieutenant in Captain Somersby Gilman's company, which fought under Sir William Pepperel, at the first capture of Louisburg. Ten years later, in 1755, he was in the expedition to Lake George against Crown Point, where many of his fellow-soldiers fell in battle, and where his brother, then captain, acquired much honor by his bold and successful attack upon the French and Indians. At this battle he received a dangerous bullet wound through his shoulder under the collar-bone, the scars of which he carried through life. Having fought so often and exposed his life in defence of the English government, he would naturally feel reluctant to engage in opposition to it. So when the Stamp Act was repealed, in 1766, and there was a prospect of peace, there was much rejoicing. At the celebration, May 19, 1766, he lost one leg by the bursting of a cannon. It is said to have been an old swivel which had been buried nearly twenty years, which the enthusiastic citizens in the excitement of the occasion had dug up and had brought into use, without the precaution of testing its strength. One would suppose that under these circumstances it was time for him to retire. But when the Revolutionary war commenced, he set out for another campaign, and found his way to Bunker Hill. Here he hobbled into battle on his wooden leg, and took charge of a mortar. It is said that at the second shot he threw a bomb upon the deck of a British man-of-war, which led her to draw off as soon as possible into safer quarters. His posterity have become numerous and widely scattered, many of them in the West. His son, Jonathan, was many years town-clerk in New Durham. Among his descendants are Captain Hawley Folsom, of the Boston police, Dr. James Folsom, Commercial street, Boston, Thomas J. Pinkham, Esq., Lynn, Mass., W. F. Durgin, Medford, Mass.

GEN. NATHANIEL FOLSOM, OF EXETER.

Of the many prominent and useful men that Exeter produced in the first two centuries after its settlement, few, if any, are more worthy of a place in the history of the town than General Nathaniel Folsom.

His father was Jonathan Folsom, a farmer in the east part of the town, and his mother was Anna (daughter of Nathaniel) Ladd. When he was 14 years old his father died, leaving a large family of children, some of them quite small. Nathaniel learned a trade, and became a respectable mechanic, but was early elected an officer in the militia. His services were soon required in the expedition against Crown Point. In 1755 he led his company from New Hampshire through the woods to Albany, and thence to Fort Edward, where the New Hampshire rangers were posted. On the 8th of September, at about 4 o'clock P. M., he met a large body of French and Indians returning from their unsuccessful attack upon Fort George. With eighty New England men and about forty New York soldiers, he attacked them, keeping up the battle till night, with great loss to the enemy. In the report, it is said "they continued an obstinate engagement, with more than a thousand men, about three hours, when night came on, and the French and Indians went off and left all. They killed great numbers of the enemy, and recovered 1,200 packs."

The engagement of the day, thus closed by Capt. Folsom, it is said, "served more than anything else to revive the spirit of the colonies."

In 1767 he was major, and soon after colonel. I know not that the general ever claimed the honor, but a British officer, commanding at Portsmouth, gave him the credit of leading a company of men who surprised the garrison at that place, and took away from the fort the powder and the cannon without shedding any blood, or doing violence to any person.

The arms and ammunition taken at that time proved of great value to the colonists, who were poorly prepared to meet the advance of the British army.

He had for several years been a member of the New Hampshire house of representatives, and in July, 1774, was chosen with General John Sullivan to the first general congress, which met at Philadelphia.

Being a firm and ardent patriot, he served during the siege of Boston as brigadier-general. In 1775 he was commissioned major-general; but in February, 1776, his wife died, leaving a large family of children, and he, being relieved by Gen. Sullivan, returned to Exeter. The same year he was appointed judge of the court of common pleas, an office which he held (being part of the time chief-justice) till his death in May, 1790.

In 1777 and 1779 he was again a member of congress. In a letter to his friend, Hon. Meshech Weare, president of the council of New Hampshire, he said,—“ The 8th Article of the Constitution gave him great uneasiness,” as it gave the South an exemption from taxation for their slaves, who constituted one third of their wealth, and thus threw a larger burden upon the free states than was equitable.

In 1778 he was chosen councillor, and in 1783 was temporary president of the convention that framed the constitution of New Hampshire.

General Folsom was not brilliant, but was quiet, firm, and judicious—successful in business, leaving a large property to his heirs. He was a patriot and a brave soldier, but he was also “ a Christian, and not swift in private battles.” He was active and useful at home, being highly respected by his neighbors, and the community sustained a great loss at his death.

REMARKS.

There have been many others who have deserved more extensive notice than I have given them in this work, especially those who, with a spirit of noble patriotism, responded to the calls of our country in the day of its need—who were willing to leave their comfortable homes and kind friends, and take the posts of danger in the defence of our homes and our firesides ; but I have not been able (except in a few cases) to obtain the information necessary for such records. Many now living have been too modest to tell me the particulars necessary for biographical sketches, and the records of their deeds in the service of their country remain unwritten. They gladly laid down their deadly weapons, and cheerfully returned to the vocations of civil life, where there may be seem discharging the duties of honorable citizens. They have no pleasure in recollecting the sad scenes of blood and ruin through which they have passed, but look back upon those fearful conflicts as upon painful dreams, which are to return no more.

The friends of those who have departed shrink from furnishing me the means of publishing an account of the toils and the sufferings through which they passed before each one finished his course. But we know that their record is on high.

Those who wish to keep more extended records of their friends can easily insert a few more leaves in this volume, with such particulars as they wish to preserve for future generations.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE FOLSOM FAMILY.

Different families, as well as different races, have exhibited peculiar traits of character; and the earlier generations of this family afford illustrations of this principle.

1. It was a religious family. Religious principles led John Folsom, the father of the American branch, with his relatives, the Gilmans, to sell most of their estates in their native land for half the price they were worth, and leave for the use of others what they could not sell; to bid farewell to old friends and the familiar scenes of early life, and encounter the dangers of a long voyage over the wide ocean, and expose themselves to the treacherous attacks of the cruel and warlike savages; to submit to the self-denying toils, sufferings, and destitutions which were then unavoidable in settling this new and unexplored country, and in laying the foundations of this new state. When they must have known, from the experience of the friends who had gone before them, much of the dangers to be met, it required great courage and decision of character to enable them to face all these dangers, for the purpose of obtaining homes for their families and freedom to worship God. It was a religious movement; and their religious teacher came with them, to share in their trials. Owing to the suspension of persecutions in his former parish, he returned in a few years, and closed his ministerial work with the portion of his parishioners whom they had left in old Hingham, England. For more than a hundred years the religious element continued prominent in the family. When Whitefield visited America, many of them became his devoted followers. Their zeal in the new cause roused much opposition, and not a few of them separated from the churches of their fathers, which they imagined had become corrupted, and they were classed among the New Lights. The Baptists, who had been unpopular, sympathized with them, and received them with open arms; and many of the family became preachers and prominent men in that denomination, passing over, in the division that followed, into the Freewill Baptist church, which probably has contained more of the family than any other church.

2. The Occupations of the Family. Most of the sons, in the early families, learned each some mechanical trade. Many were joiners, millwrights, &c. But they were not long confined to these occupations, but became farmers, merchants, lumbermen, &c. The children and grandchildren of the emigrant were extensive landholders, and the 4th and 5th generations inherited lands, and were interested in saw-mills.

John Folsom, the first, was engaged in erecting a saw-mill soon after he landed in America. After removing to Exeter, his children and grandchildren were soon engaged in business connected with mills. I find their names as holding property in the mill on the "Little river that falls into the great river above the village," the mills at the Lower Falls, Upper Falls, King's Falls, Pickpocket, Crawley's, and "The Rocks" (now Fremont); upon the Piscassic river, upon Lamprey river, at Wadley's Falls, Upper and Lower Pawtuckaway Falls in Epping; and even in Deerfield and in Meredith there were "Folsom's mills," in early times. They well knew that the value of their timber lands was much increased by erecting mills, where the heavy timber could be cut up into merchantable lumber, as it was needed and ordered.

Of the great number who removed into the Province of Maine, soon after the Revolutionary war, many engaged, at least for a portion of the year, in the lumber business, buying timber lands, and spending much of the winter in cutting and hauling logs to the mills, or to the streams where they could be floated to the mills, or working in the mills. As the families of the men employed in this business must have provisions, &c., stores were opened near the mills, and the Folsoms became merchants, and sometimes inn-keepers.

Though many of the family became preachers, and some doctors, lawyers, judges, &c., not many, in proportion to the whole number, have graduated at our colleges and theological seminaries.

3. The Folsom family have had a decided inclination to engage in military affairs. The emigrant, John<sup>1</sup>, was an officer, and the records of his descendants are thickly sprinkled with military titles. In this they resembled their relatives, the Gilmans, who were prominent as military men. They were always ready to stand in the front ranks, as the settlements advanced into the wilderness. One son of John<sup>1</sup>, Ephraim<sup>2</sup>, was killed by the Indians at Newfields (South Newmarket), and Nathaniel<sup>3</sup>, a grandson, was killed at Nottingham: others suffered much from Indian depredations. In every war from which the country has suffered, this family has borne its full share of the toils and dangers and expenses. They have not shrunk from any post of duty to which they have been called, in the service of their country.

It is interesting to notice how the military spirit has descended from father to son for generations. A son of Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> was killed in the Indian war; his son, an officer, was out in the French war; his grandson was in the Revolutionary war; his great-grandson in the war of 1812; and lastly, a descendant of the fifth generation was a soldier in the terrible civil war of the Rebellion, together with a great many others of his kindred, of whom not a few gave their services and lost their lives in the defence of their country.

CORRECTIONS.

In No. 3, iii (p. 23), the children of NATHANIEL and SARAH (FOLSOM) STEVENS were,—

1. Samuel, b. 17 Dec., 1704.
  2. Cattooran, b. 9 July, 1707.
  3. Mehitable, b. 21 Dec., 1709.
  4. John, b. 9 Feb., 1710, 11.
  5. Jonathan, b. 20 March, 1714.
  6. Benjamin, b. 19 May, 1716.
  7. David, b. 30 Dec., 1717.
- (From Stratham Town Records.)

The list on page 23 contains names of some children of N. Stevens by his first wife.

On page 108 (No. 74), 3d line, read 4 daughters of N. Folsom, Jr.<sup>6</sup>

On page 110, 8th and 9th lines, read James William for George William.

N. B. Blanks are left on the pages of the volume so that persons receiving it may make corrections and additions as needed.
